1   This is a First-level Heading

Normal text . . .

Another text paragraph . . .

This is a normal text paragraph. This is a complementary sentence. This is a complementary sentence. Here is a footnote.[1] References should use Harvard citation style. For example, Markus and Robey (1988) is an often-cited journal article. This is a reference to a book (Avison and Fitzgerald, 1995, p. 20). A reference to a conference paper is Kude et al. (2014).

1.1   This is a second-level heading

Normal text . . .

Lorem ipsum dolor sit amet, consectetur adipiscing elit, sed do eiusmod tempor incididunt ut labore et dolore magna aliqua. Ipsum consequat nisl vel pretium lectus. Tincidunt dui ut ornare lectus sit. Quis viverra nibh cras pulvinar. Egestas tellus rutrum tellus pellentesque eu. Habitant morbi tristique senectus

2 Page Length and Other Requirements

Each type of revised submission has specific page length limit requirements, as follows:

- Completed Research Papers – 16 pages
- Short Papers – 8 pages
- Panel Proposals – 6 pages
- Debate and Provocation Proposals – 6 pages
- TREO Forum Papers – 3 pages

See additional requirements specific to each type of submission in the call for papers. These page limits are all inclusive, and include the title, body of the paper, figures and tables, references, and appendices. Any submission that exceeds page length limits will be rejected without review.

2.1 Figure

2.2 Table

Tables should be titled like the example shows below. The caption should always be placed below the table. The table may not extend the margins.

Question	Average 1992	Average 1999
1 How do you regard . . .	3.4	3.7
2 How do you . . .	2.7	3.4
3 How do you . . .	3.9	3.6

Table 1.   Important table.

After a table, the text continues like this.

2.3 Lists

You can use lists, both unnumbered and numbered. They can also be nested. Here is an unnumbered list:

- This is an item in the first level list.

- This is another item.
    - Here we are in the second level.
    - This is another item.
- And a third item on the first level.

Here is a numbered list:

1. This is an item in the first level list.
2. This is another item.
    a) Here we are in the second level.
    b) This is another item.
3. And a third item on the first level.

After a list, the text continues like this.

2.4 Reference list

Please ensure that all references are present, complete, and accurate as per the examples below.

The list of references should look like the example below.

Please note that some of the references are not cited in the text. This is for illustration purposes only and enforced by the \nocite{} command.
